

Bringing back the Palouse Prairie: Exploring Moscow's Urban Native Plant Communities

Kali Armitage and Steve Bunting

Presentation: Join us for a presentation exploring the beauty and benefits of Moscow's native plant communities! Discover inspiring examples of local yards where passionate land stewards are creating pollinator habitats, conserving water, and designing low-maintenance, sustainable landscapes. Whether you're looking to enhance your yard with natural beauty or make eco-friendly choices, you'll leave with valuable tips on plant selection and implementation. Plus, learn about upcoming yard tours and get inspired by what's possible right here in our community.

Presenters: Kali Armitage is an amateur native plant enthusiast and habitat creator. Steve Bunting is a retired professor of rangeland and landscape ecology from the University of Idaho.
